Purposes and legal basis of data processing according to Art. 13 (1) c) GDPR

The personal data are processed for the purpose of executing contracts or in connection with precontractual measures. These include the customer master data, including contact persons, as well as the contact history, offers, orders, invoices, project data and other legal obligations on the part of the controller.

The legal basis is set forth in Art. 6 GDPR. Other important legal bases are the German Commercial Code, tax legislation, the German Limited Liability Companies Act and other legal requirements relevant to the GmbH & Co. KG. These also include contractual arrangements. The processing of newsletters takes place on the basis of consent by the data subject.

Processing is carried out in order to pursue the legitimate interests of the controller or of a third party according to Art. 13 (1) d) GDPR

Where necessary, we process your data beyond the extent required for the actual fulfilment of the contract in order to pursue our legitimate interests or those of third parties. These include:

- Sales management and sales controlling
- Establishment of legal claims and defence in legal disputes
- Guaranteeing IT security and IT operation
- Measures associated with building and plant security (such as access controls, video surveillance) and ensuring compliance with site regulations
- Measures associated with business management and development

Categories of recipients of personal data (communication of data) according to Art. 13 (1) e) GDPR

Within Germany, the European Union and the European Economic Area
Germany:

Auditors, bailiffs and other creditors as well as other state agencies in connection with the fulfilment of legal obligations and in connection with requested certifications, logistics companies, customers as well as suppliers and other agencies and business partners.

Third country including adequacy decision according to Art. 13 (1) f) GDPR

Within the context of international business relationships, the communication of data according to Art. 6 (1) b) takes place for the purpose of executing contracts or in connection with precontractual measures. This does not require any adequacy decision.

Period for which the personal data are stored according to Art. 13 Abs (2) a)

The relevant purposes arise from legal requirements as well as relevant industry-specific regulations. The personal data are erased after such purposes have been achieved.

Rights of the data subject according to Art. 13 Abs (2) b)

You can exercise your rights at any time using the contact details provided above. If personal data of yours are processed, you are the data subject in terms of the GDPR and you are entitled to the following rights with respect to the controller:

Advice on rights of the data subject

The data subject has the right to demand from the controller confirmation as to whether personal data relating to them are processed; if this is the case, then they have a right to information concerning these personal data and to the information listed in detail in Art. 15 GDPR.

The data subject has the right to demand from the controller the immediate rectification of inaccurate personal data relating to them and if necessary the completion of incomplete personal data (Art. 16 GDPR).

The data subject has the right to demand from the controller the immediate erasure of personal data relating to them, where one of the grounds listed individually in Art. 17 GDPR applies, for example if the data are no longer required for the intended purposes (right to erasure).

The data subject has the right to demand from the controller the restriction of processing if one of the prerequisites listed in Art. 18 GDPR is fulfilled, for example if the data subject has objected to the processing, for the duration of examination by the controller.

The data subject has the right to object at any time to processing of personal data concerning them on grounds relating to their particular situation. In this case, the controller will no longer process the personal data unless they can demonstrate compelling legitimate grounds for the processing which override the interests, rights and freedoms of the data subject, or the processing is necessary for the establishment, exercise or defence of legal claims (Art. 21 GDPR).

Rights of the data subject according to Art. 13 (2) c) GDPR

If you have given us your consent to the processing of personal data for particular purposes (for example, processing images of the data subject), the lawfulness of this processing is based on your consent.

Consent which has been given can be withdrawn at any time. This also applies to the withdrawal of declarations of consent made to us before entry into force of the GDPR, i.e. before 25 May 2018.

Please note that such withdrawal of consent is only effective for the future. Processing which took place prior to the withdrawal of consent is not affected.

The right to lodge a complaint with a supervisory authority according to Art. 13 (2) d) GDPR

Without prejudice to any other form of administrative or judicial remedy, every data subject has the right to lodge a complaint with a supervisory authority if the data subject considers that the processing of personal data relating to them violates the GDPR (Art. 77 GDPR). The data subject can exercise this right in the member state of their habitual residence, place of work or place of the alleged infringement.
